Using EOLs to Extract Warranty Periods From Serial Numbers.Hollywood director Darren Aronofsky is finally making the Godzilla movie fans have been waiting years for. It's coming to a theater near you on May 31, 2019. The director's new monster movie, a live action/CG hybrid titled Mother! recently began filming in Mexico. News also broke that Aronofsky had signed on to write and direct this project, which had long been a passion project of his. According to TV Guide, he's brought his own kids into the project as well — and who doesn't want to see a Godzilla flick with the man who brought us The Fountain? Aronofsky's recent filmography is quite a microcosm of sorts. The Hollywood director has always been a student of the horror genre, with his first feature Pi looking at a number of seminal works including Dario Argento's Suspiria. He's used that influence in his subsequent work as well, with the Aronofsky-helmed Wolverine Origins and The Wrestler being two of his best known examples. Mother!, on the other hand, will be the director's first experience in the Godzilla format. But he already got a taste of it with his latest film, Noah, which is intended to be a summation of all his previous works. However, Mother! is this time out — which could be quite a feat, given how unique the titular character is. It was first unveiled by Legendary Pictures back in 2016. At the time, the producers made no mention of this being Aronofsky's Godzilla film, instead describing it as a "reimagining of the classic Godzilla," with Aronofsky recently becoming attached
